Dear Residents, Family Members and Resident Representatives,

We're thrilled to report that we haven't had any new cases of COVID-19 this week. As we expected, the Omicron variant took us by storm with an alarmingly high number of new cases, and then quickly retreated as the new cases rapidly decreased.

We're keeping our eye on the latest Omicron subvariant, which is being called BA.2. So far, we haven't heard or read anything to indicate that this subvariant is any more severe than the original Omicron, although it appears to be more contagious. We'll continue to monitor this activity and share our findings with you.

Thanks to all of you for your ongoing support. Please don't hesitate to share any comments, concerns or questions.

Regards,

The Keane Family
