

SUNNYSIDE MANOR

The Area's Premier Family Owned & Operated Senior Living Community

August 26, 2022

Dear Residents, Family Members and Resident Representatives,

We do not have any additional cases of COVID-19 to report, and we've completed all of the testing related to the cases we previously reported. Overall, it appears that things are moving in the right direction, as the number of new cases in New Jersey has been declining over the past few weeks. However, despite the declining COVID activity, the CDC weekly reporting is still showing that the transmission levels are red (high) throughout New Jersey.

The general consensus is that COVID is here to stay, although the situation today is very different from the COVID we saw before the vaccines were introduced. The data shows that our vaccinated nursing home residents are simply not getting sick from COVID the way they were in 2020. During a meeting of senior living industry leaders earlier this week, the topic of facemasks came up again. As we've mentioned before, there is a growing initiative to convince the CDC to reconsider some of the restrictions that don't seem necessary now that COVID is not the life-threatening virus it was before vaccines were available. One person in the meeting said, "Let our residents see our smiling faces". That resonated with us.

We hope you have an enjoyable and safe weekend, and we thank you all for your ongoing support.

Regards,

The Keane Family
